About MIRA City

Surrounded by forest, where the wild pine predominates, the acacias and the Portuguese Crowberry, a specific flora that formerly helped to secure the dunes, Mira is situated in the Central region, little more than 30 kilometres from the Porto-Lisbon highway (Mealhada loop), 40 kilometres from Coimbra, 100 kilometres from the city of Porto and 240 kilometres from Lisbon.

The district is best known for the Beach of Mira, a coastal village surrounded by a protected area, the Mira Dunes National Forest, and that has been becoming popular as a holiday resort for those who want a more tranquil spot.

The Beach of Mira nestles between the dunes and the Atlantic Ocean, on one side, and the calm waters of the Barrinha Lake (A good spot for boat trips, swimming and for some water sports) on the other side, and is proud of its traditional fishing vessels, brightly painted and with high prows.

Adepts at sport fishing will find a wide choice here: barbels, carp and catfish in the rivers, and sargos, snapper and mullet in the sea.

As it is natural, the regional gastronomy is based on the excellent fresh fish and the abundance and variety of shellfish.
